

Introducing the BITQ Team

A gregarious tech-savvy

Q: Share a bit about what you are working on now within BITQ.

Taylor: I am currently working with the Australian Industry Trade College to build them a new comprehensive Data Warehouse solution and multi-dimensional model, which will allow their business users and stakeholders to make better decisions using self-service reporting.

Q: How do you describe your personality?

Taylor: I am pretty easy-going and somewhat puerile at times. I make friends easily because I enjoy talking with people about pretty much anything.

Q: Tell us a bit about your family?

Taylor: I have been married for 10 years to Emma, we have two children, Skylar (8) and Oliver (7).

Q: What is something you are planning on doing in the next year that you have never done?

Taylor: Take more than a week off work 😊

Oliver (left) and Skylar

Q: What is the best advice you have ever heard?

Taylor: Not really advice per se, more of a figure of speech, but I like it, nonetheless.
“A jack of all trades is a master of none, but oftentimes better than a master of one.”